16	1. F. NHS? failings seem to matter more than those of other institutions and the urge to praise the service can overwhelm the need for clear-eyed analysis. 2. F. NHS is unique and uniquely loved institution. 3. F. NHS needs reform in the same way that the Met police needs reform. 5? NHS can only truly be a national health service if it treats all the communities that make up the nation equally.	+1 +1 +1 0,5 (3,5)
17	1. the truth most bluntly uncovered by the pandemic is the scale and the depth of inequality in 21st-century Britain. 3. In the glare of the pandemic's searchlight, ethnic inequalities in healthcare and health outcomes have been more widely publicised than ever before. 4. Because during pandemic many people were searching a lot and found out information about health inequality.	— 2-1- — 4 0

20	During the pandemic unpleasant truth has been made. Many people found out about the scale and depth of inequality in 21st-century Britain. Health outcomes have been widely publicised. Disturbing statistics have been brought to broader public attention. It's difficult to talk about NHS critically because people want to praise the service however it needs reform, as it has manifestly failed minority communities.	E sp. 3
