Dear future generations,

I'm on cloud nine that you're decided to open the time capsule. In my letter, I'd like to describe three objects that I consider most significant in our life.

To begin with I want to tell about very important book for me. It's "Adventures of Sherlock Holmes" by Arthur Conan Doyle. I think that classical book can explain a lot of things in our life. At first of all, it's about people and their relationships, about love and hate, friendship and greed, goodness and evil. I read it a lot of times and would like my children liked it so.

The second thing is a smartphone. This little device help people keep up with the latest news whenever they're at work, at school or at home. It can be used as a navigator or as camera.

And the last object is <sup>the</sup> metro in Moscow. This is underground system of public transport and Moscow's stations are very amazing. I think metro of Moscow is object of world's ~~culture~~ culture heritage as Colosseum in Italy.

In conclusion I want to say that a life of modern people is very diverse. I want to show a piece of my life and feelings.
