ТВОРЧЕСКОЕ ЗАДАНИЕ

In this day and age, science is developing rapidly, which has generated certain contradictions regarding the interaction with the representatives of extraterrestrial forms of life. Some experts are reluctant to engage in such endeavours, others, on the contrary, show enthusiasm. This essay considers the optimal resolution of the debate.

From my perspective, such an initiative exposes us to imminent danger. Possibly, aliens are hostile towards our civilisation. In all likelihood, this relationship will result in an all-out confrontation with a probably superior opponent. As a case in point, there's a reason for the multiplicity of science fiction films about alien invasion. We need to prevent their plots from revolving in real life.

Another thing to bear in mind is the technology exploited in these processes. It is exorbitantly expensive and, into the bargain, its operation requires specialised knowledge. For instance, sending a single signal could call for a whole team of scientists and a range of equipment the cost of which exceeds the annual budget of most countries.

On balance, there's no chance that this venture will reach fruition. Not only does it jeopardise our very existence, but it also implies an immense sacrifice, both in terms of workforce and finances. Undoubtedly, the attempts at communication with unexplored creatures should

Down-to-earth people don't hide their intentions, while she fools a fortune hunter gold-digger, Brantain by imitating real emotions to ensure her marriage, even though she doesn't care for him and her allegiances lie elsewhere. That is a Jekyll-and-Hyde kind of behaviour. She's not at all as innocent as she wants to appear, she's a predator.
