ТВОРЧЕСКОЕ ЗАДАНИЕ

Contrary to popular belief, I think humans should not contact or interact with life beyond Earth. The danger of coming ~~ac~~ across an aggressively-minded life form is too great.

First of all, there is no way to predict the life forms we will encounter. For example, what if the radio waves we use for communication are harmful to a ~~spe~~ life form? They will perceive ~~or~~ our interaction as an act of aggression.

An unlikely situation, but, what if Voyager-1 crashes on a planet inhabited with intelligent life? They will definitely take offense to that.

A wise man once said: there are only two types of life forms in the universe: the quiet ones and the dead ones. And I totally agree. There is a possibility that there is life beyond Earth, but it stays hidden to minimize the risk of being ~~oblit~~ obliterated by a more advanced life form. If so, we should stay hidden too.

Lastly, we have a lot of problems here on Earth that need to be accounted for. I don't think we will be ready to take on interplanetary problems until we solve issues such as world hunger, ~~and~~ climate change and ~~totata~~ get rid of war and social inequality on Earth.

20	Humiliated, yet forgiven. The title portrays Natalie Natavie at the end of the story. She was first humiliated when Harry kissed her in front of Brantain, then when she came begging for forgiveness. Because of her honesty, she was granted that forgiveness. But she'll probably never stop feeling guilty and humiliated in front of Brantain.
