ТВОРЧЕСКОЕ ЗАДАНИЕ

While I believe we can't be alone in the universe, I'm convinced we should be extremely careful with attempts of contacting other life forms, as it may backfire and put the humanity in danger.

Firstly, even if any intelligent species get our message, it's unlikely they'll come with peace, especially if they're ~~more~~ more highly-developed than humans are. Our planet contains essential materials that may be desired by aliens, and with a signal coming from the Earth, ~~it~~ would coming to conquer it would be no issue. At the same time, if the species <sup>which</sup> our signal reaches are not developed enough to understand it, it will simply go to waste. But we never know at what pace the aliens will grow intellectually, and once they're more powerful than us, there would be no point for them to befriend vulnerable, stupid humans.

However, I think ~~them~~ discovery should be done to some extent. Firstly, it's necessary to encrypt the signal that we send, so that the receiver can't track down its source, but can still accept the information. Secondly, ~~obviously~~ we must conduct researches on the existence of aliens ourselves, ~~not~~ with the goal to find them first and not to be found by them.

To conclude, I believe scientists know what they're doing. I trust them on making right decisions and keeping us safe.
