The food problem is one of the most terrifying global problems nowadays. In many parts of the world people die of hunger though it may seem implausible for those who live in high-developed countries. But to solve this problem we first have to see what causes it.

The most obvious reason of the lack of food is a number of people living in a country. If a lot of people live in a small territory, it is impossible to provide everyone with vital resources, including food. In some countries governments solve this problem by passing special laws, for example, ones that allow families to have only one child.

Another reason there is not enough food for everyone is climate. In some parts of the world it is too cold or too hot and soil is less ~~fertilized~~ fertilized which makes growing fruits and vegetables more problematic. A possible solution to the problem is to fertilize the soil with compost, for example.

It is also worth mentioning that one of the major reasons of the food problem is food waste. The amount of food thrown away every day scares and more and more people ~~are~~ start to worry about it. But to reduce food waste
