ВАРИАНТ № 2

Many global issues have arisen as a result of the increased financial prosperity around the world. One of these issues is food waste, and ~~there is a number~~ are several reasons for its fast-growing rates.

Firstly, with the financial independence that many people have reached, ~~there is more room~~ for food expenses are deemed ^{relatively} insignificant. Since most can nowadays afford to buy as much food as ^{needed} ~~is wanted~~, there are no limits ~~to it~~. For instance, when organizing a party, people will ~~most likely~~ obtain food in surplus and get rid of the remains ~~as its~~ ~~if~~ afterwards as overabundance is ^{considered} ~~considered~~ better ~~than the lack~~ more secure than ~~if there is~~ ^{the ultimate} ~~av~~lack of food. People ~~can afford to buy too much food, therefore so they do it.~~

Secondly, there is clearly an imbalance ~~of~~ the resources that countries possess. Since ^{while} some of them ~~countries~~ have too many ^{resources} ~~of them~~, others are facing a severe economic demise. Africa is one of such countries, with its people suffering from famine. However, ~~many other~~ the rest of the world population is contributing to the food waste. Since people have more food than actually needed, they do not fear using it and throw it away in large amounts.

Finally, the problem of excessive food waste is of a complex nature and ~~it should~~^{must} be addressed globally. ^{By} Raising public awareness and enforcing laws restricting waste the governments will alleviate the current situation and the issue will be eradicated in the foreseeable future.

19	1) notice 2) territory 3) disembark 4) weak 5) see off
20	I believe "Hope dies last" to be is the most suitable title for the text. It underlines refers to both the unwavering hope of Mrs. Baxter of meeting her husband and the hope that Jean had for Mr. Baxter's existence. This title the highlights the underlying lesson of this text and shows that the the idea of all hope being ultimately justified is central to its meaning.
