ВАРИАНТ № 2

Nowadays, people tend to waste a lot of food that they buy from shops and restaurants. Usually it happens because people overestimate the amount of food they consume and buy way more than they can eat before what they have bought expires. Various ads also contribute to this problem. Slogans such as "buy one and get 50% off the second," or "buy two and get the third for free," are made specifically to trick us into buying more products than we originally planned to. They are especially effective when it comes to people who try to save up money and subconsciously look for a bargain. One way to solve this problem is to either change the nature of these slogans to persuade people into buying moderate amounts of food or getting rid of them as a whole. Another method of regulating food waste, although it's rather dubious, includes compelling residents to report food waste and ~~to~~ suggesting a clear, planned-out legislation meant to reduce the waste. And, of course, it is also crucial to educate people on the current state of national environment and foster ~~a~~ environmental consciousness, because taking further steps in regulating food waste will be way harder if the citizens won't be compelled to contribute to such socially beneficial goals. That's all I have to say on this topic.

16	1. "those who could pay, did. Those who could not brought her butter and cheese, fish, vegetables, eggs, and fresh pepper sauce." 2. "Butter had it the speculator had gone bankrupt and that the doctor had bought the land for him. Some said she had money of her own and would build a great mansion..." 3. This is just like the fairy stories you used to tell me."
17	1. Mrs. Baxter: wake up, attend to her patients, go to the station, wait for her husband, go home. Mrs. Baxter's daughter: wake up, go to school, go to the station, wait for her father, go home 2. Because then he would have to admit that love, hope and faith mean nothing 3. "He did not, at first, notice the thin, haggard man in "The man was handsome, but gaunt." He walked with the help of a cane."
18	prime ranchland - fertile farmland, the best of the area. attend to her the patients - take care of her patients' needs, cure them come evening - at evening/every evening bury his face (in the doctor's neck) - press his face into it.
19	spot - notice parcel - piece a light - get down (from) gaunt - limp wave off - wave goodbye
20	I personally would choose the title "Me and Mrs. Baxter", because the story not only tells us about a mysterious Dr. Baxter and his life at Point Reyes, but also about her beloved husband for whom she waited every evening at the station for over a year even when it looked like he would never come.
