Nowadays the depletion of natural resources is a big problem all across the globe. But some countries face an even bigger one - food shortage. It impacts their productivity greatly, as hungry people are pretty bad workers. As a result, those countries become irrelevant for the international trade process and are unable to defend themselves in wars if they break out. ~~that~~

There are, in my opinion, just a few reasons for food shortage. The first one is the climate of the country. In several countries it is either way too cold or way too hot to be able to produce a lot of food. The second one is the failing economy of some countries.

These problems aren't easy to solve, but there are some steps that could be taken. For the first problem, special constructions can be made, such as greenhouses. The countries could also just buy food from other countries, but then they would face the economic problem. That one is more difficult to solve, but the situation could be improved if the country discovers a certain field they can pursue and develop.

The whole ~~for~~ problem of resource depletion could be solved by the world working together, but it would still be very hard and take many years.

20	"Broken happiness". I think this choice is suitable for the text, because both women seem to be content with their current situations. Adele has gotten away from her relatives and is enjoying the pleasant climate of the island, and Rebecca has escaped her unhappy situation and gets to relax in the lagoon.
