A lot of people in our world can't get good food or water, or they can't get those things at all. That is called poverty, and it's affecting a lot of different countries and cities, which is why places like ~~Australia~~ ^{Africa} have a high mortality rate for children, they just don't get enough food! And I want to discuss how to make enough food for everyone.

First of all, let's look at the cause of this food shortage. For example Africa, which was previously mentioned, doesn't have a very fertile soil, and their climate isn't perfect for a lot of plants so they have to rely on foreign shipments for food. The second problem is that they are in a very bad economic state, so they can't always rely on other countries for provisions. This means that they are stuck in a loop where they can't get food themselves and can't get it from other countries.

So how do we deal with this? There are multiple solutions for this. First is charity, it's a slow process but with enough people we can get enough money and food to at least feed someone, that is better than nothing. We can also try to get our governments to start a program, meant to help poor countries with food and many other things, but it won't be easy. The only thing us, normal people, can do is try. Unless someone with a lot of wealth and influence decides to help those countries, their ~~problems~~ ~~is~~ suffering will continue, but we can try to help them survive until that day comes.

In conclusion helping poor countries is hard, and sometimes it can feel useless to even try. But, the best way we could help those people, is by never giving up.
