Вариант № 3

16	1. "...and ushered her into a dark foyer." 2. "...a parlour every bit as pleasing as the foyer." 3. "It's a shame to let a lovely house like that just die." "It's a bit of a wreck, but it has good bones." 4. "A mere fraction of what it was worth."
17	1. "Good day," the old woman said, a luminative expression on her face. 2. She thought that the roses would make the teahouse^{room} attractive, as no one else in New York had a teahouse with tea roses in the backyard. 3. "But Miss Nicholson abruptly cut her off, saying she had no interest in renting the building." 4. "... she said quickly, mortified at admitting this to a stranger." 5. She understood Fiona and felt they were alike, so she wanted to help her.
18	1. a kind old person 2. be a good decoration of the place 3. to become sensitive or talkative 4. getting more dominant position than her 5. Played with her, gave her false hopes
19	1. future husbands 2. cold 3. break 4. understanding 5. part
20	This story may be named "Love Teahouse" or something like this, as its plot is based on Fiona's desire to rent the house and open a teahouse and the two women being connected by an unlikely love and a recent break heartbreak. Thus, the name would portray text's two main aspects: a wish to open the teahouse and a want of love.

ВАРИАНТ № 3.

Nowadays, AI is becoming more and more popular. On the one hand, it is good, as it is fun and might help people study. On the other hand, it might be harmful, as people are able to create ~~harmful~~ offensive deepfakes and so on via AI.

So, why is artificial intelligent so popular? To begin with, because it is interesting. People have never seen anything like this, so everyone wants to try. Moreover, there are a lot of AI types, so everyone can find something suitable. For instance, some people may create art with AI's help, while others may ~~chat~~ chat with AI chat bots. And, of course, some people may use it to cheat at school or something.

I am not sure if there is a one appropriate solution, but AI censorship should be better. I ~~do~~ definitely think that AI websites creating deepfakes should be banned, AI art should be marked with a sign, showing that the picture was not made by person, and information in GPTs should be checked carefully.

Thus, AI might be considered positive and negative at the same time. To prevent society from degrading due to using AI too much, we should be more cautious while using it. Additionally, we have to always check the information, given by AI, and not believe everything we see in the Web.
