Nowadays, a lot of people keep a non-eco-friendly lifestyle that damages our nature and causes many ecological problems, for example, dumps. Inspite of many great and modern eco-activisting campaigns, which are trying to fight ecological issues all around the world, people still waste an enourmouse amount of food. Unfortunately, this problem has reached the highest peak in our century because people don't make any attempts to change the situation somehow.

According to the many surveys, scientific researches and statistics people waste food because of the desire to buy that products that they have seen on TV and a lack of knowledge how to plane their daily meny and how to store ~~pe~~ food right.

From my point of view, people should be rational and use their critical thinking before buying food. It will significantly decrease the food wasting. Also people ought to make plans ~~for their~~ ^{for a} daily nutrition so their consupcion ~~could~~ be more beneficial. By the way, there I can notice that high quality fridges make the period of food storage way longer.

To sum up, I would like to say that people have to reconsider their way of life and food habits if they trully want to save our planet, improve the condition of nature and just have a future on the Earth.

20	I think that a title "Point Reyes station" is the most suitable variant for the title of the story. It's simple and doesn't give any spoilers to readers. But at the same time the title doesn't give any extra information at all what makes the story more intriguing for us.
