Stop Absent-minded Consumption

Nowadays, people waste a lot of food that they buy from shops and restaurants. Unfortunately, it's becoming a global ~~trend~~ problem that has significant reasons.

To begin with, we live in a world of overconsumption and overproduction. Many factories produce food in surplus ~~to~~ in an attempt to earn more money. In addition, myriads of people are unaware of environmental ~~is~~ issues, so they continue wasting food. Furthermore, some governments lack valid anti-environmental legislation, so they encourage overconsumption and food wastage.

Luckily, there are some measures that can be done to reduce the amount of food we throw away. Firstly, we should increase people's awareness about environmental problems through social media campaigns and school lessons. Secondly, governments are suggested to create laws on environmental protection and charge people who throw away food. Lastly, people should behave more mindfully when buying food. ~~On~~ They are supposed to carefully estimate their budget and needs, so only food there ~~will~~ is not any excessive amount of products. ~~##~~ This will not only solve the problem of environmental pollution but also contribute to good health of our society.

All in all, it is hard to stop wasting food in our globalised world. However, together we can do that by all means.
