AI's Domination

AI seems to be a global breakthrough almost in every sphere of human life. It can't be ~~thought~~ ~~said~~ said that computers' impact on our lives is negligible since everyone is attached to their gadgets and consumes digital content daily (even that produced by robots and not influencers). But why is it that contagious?

I believe there're several reasons for AI's ~~conquering~~ ~~over~~ ^{tasks} conquering over the world. Firstly, it provides us with an opportunity to swap our mundane duties with more exciting ~~tasks~~ ~~tasks~~. Routine stuff is being excellently accomplished by robots so people have already satisfied with these achievements. Secondly, its user-friendly mechanism may also stand as a cause for AI's 'domination.' Last but not least, Artificial Intelligence doesn't require any fee for its exploitation so as far as one has an access to the ~~Internet~~ Internet, they can use it freely.

I don't really think its effects are exclusively positive, but ~~AI~~ AI definitely should be regarded as a pivotal change in people's development. Anyway, I have some solutions for stopping AI being ~~omnipresent~~ omnipresent.

We shouldn't let AI steal creative jobs' duties,
such as movie producers. ~~For~~ ^{After} publishing certain laws, ~~the~~ computer machines will be left without a chance here. ~~Next~~ Furthermore, we should be capable of dealing with AI so ~~that we can~~ ~~get~~ let's ~~also~~ study basic digital-users skills! People'd ~~be~~ better stay in ~~the~~ AI's good graces!
