ВАРИАНТ № 1

While some countries are exploring the borderless universe, other lack such basic biological needs as food, clear drinking water, etc., and I believe there is one most noticeable reason for this. What causes these people's suffering is their government's unwillingness to invest in agricultural development instead of pleasing themselves with luxurious cars, mansions, etc.

To begin with, I am certain that some ~~measures~~ measures should be taken to tackle the problem. First, I think major governmental reforms should be implemented. By suspending all the liars and potential thieves from work, the country will be prepared to take further measures. The moment the country is "purified" from bureaucracy and corruption will be the moment it will be ready to develop. Second, ~~the~~ investing in farming will help the government increase the amount of food harvested per year. Therefore, prices will decrease, making food available even for the poor.

Numerous examples illustrate the significance of the agricultural branch development in a government's policy. Moreover, there is a number of examples in which countries became thriving and self-sufficient the moment the governmental policy was changed.

In conclusion, I believe that the notion I have outlined might be the solution to the problem in some cases. So, I hope that our society will manage to help poor countries develop and thrive.
